INSPIRED!

Isaiah 6:1-8; Ephesians 1:18-19; 2 Corinthians 4:4

Won't it be great when the virus is gone and we can return to the way life was two months ago? That may or may not ever happen. But life is what it is today. Social distancing, stay at home orders, curfews, wearing face masks, and constant news about deaths, unemployment, shortage of PPA, and PPP. And it may be this way for a while. Some say that life may not return to "normal" until a vaccine is created. Authorities predict that may be at least a year away. So here we are at home mostly isolated. It is a dark time for our country. So what should we do now?

Isaac Newton went through a similar experience in 1665-1666. The Great Plague of London began in the spring of 1665. There were 750,000 deaths in England with 100,000 in the city of London. This was 25% of London's population. Social distancing, self-isolation, and stay at home orders were important in stopping the spread of the disease then as they are now. As a result, businesses were closed, people lost their jobs, and the economy crashed. Records report eyewitness descriptions of London being so quiet that every day was like Sunday. Grass began growing in the streets.

Cambridge University closed down and sent students home, much like our universities have done today. One of the students affected by this closure was a 23 year old mathematics student, Isaac Newton. He left Oxford and went back to his family's farm where he had been born. For the next year plus, he spent his time studying and thinking alone. He later described this time as the most intellectually productive period of his life. During this uncertain time of darkness, Newton formulated his basic laws of motion, developed an understanding of gravity, and created a new form of math called calculus. Many have called this time Newton's "annus mirabilis", wonderful year. Newton found inspiration in a time of darkness.

In Isaiah 6, we read about a similar dark period of time and uncertainty. Uzziah the king of Judah died. Uzziah became king when he was 16 years old and ruled for more than 50 years. Judah had prospered under his rule and its military was strengthened. Judah had conquered the Philistines and the Assyrians. Uzziah was well known throughout the ancient world. Now the powerful king was dead and had to be replaced. There was much uncertainty. Isaiah was God's prophet to Israel during this dark time. There is little doubt that Isaiah was grieving, anxious, and concerned about Judah's future. In Isaiah 6:1, Isaiah's vision was changed. God lifted Isaiah's focus from the dead human king to the living eternal King who is over everything. Isaiah's upward vision led him to an inward vision. He saw the real holy God which caused him to see the real Isaiah and realize his sin. As a result he had an outward vision and realized the sinful nature of people living around him. The result of these visions was an inspiration to do something about his condition and the condition of his culture. He told the Lord, "Here am I. Send me!" In this dark time, Isaiah was inspired to prophesy for God and lead God's people.

Much like Newton, we are self isolated at home now because of an infectious disease. Like Isaiah we live in dark times with much uncertainty. What are we doing with our time? We should lift our vision above the confusion and cares of our everyday situation and focus on God. We can be inspired by a clear vision of God's love, mercy, grace, and power to be a messenger for God bringing hope to the world. I pray we will use this time of isolation to think deeply about God, study His word and develop a clearer understanding of Him. It would be ok also if somebody got inspired to come up with "Calculus for Dummies" to simplify a valuable but complex subject. A lot of college freshmen and sophomores would be ecstatic. My time in college calculus class was a dark time filled with fear and uncertainty.

The Duke Talent Identification Program or T.I.P. recognizes academically talented seventh graders. To receive the Duke T.I.P. recognition students must have scored at the 95th percentile or above on the national norms of a standardized achievement test in at least on these areas: Mathematics Problem Solving, Mathematics Procedures, Science, Total Math, Language, Reading Comprehension, Reading, Total Reading Vocabulary, Social Science or on a Complete Battery.
